DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kanno in view of Gregory.

Kanno discloses a system for controlling a speed of an internal combustion engine installed in an outboard motor mounted on a boat and having a propeller powered by the engine to propel the boat, the engine having a throttle valve 80 that regulates air to be sucked, the system comprising an actuator 86 connected to the throttle valve to move it in an opening direction or in a closing direction; an engine speed detecting means 228; an engine trouble detecting means 238; an engine speed discriminating means 256, 262 for discriminating whether the detected engine speed exceeds a predetermined speed when it is detected that the trouble has occurred in the engine; and a disable 270.

Kanno does not disclose actuator driving means for driving the actuator to move the throttle valve in the closing direction such that the engine speed drops when it is discriminated that the detected engine speed exceeds the predetermined speed.

Art Unit: 3617

Gregory discloses an actuator driving means 18 for driving the actuator 28 to move the throttle valve in the closing direction such that the engine speed drops when it is sensed that the sensor 12 is about to leave the water.

It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains to used an actuator driving means similar to 18 of Gregory as the disable 270 of Kanno such that engine speed drops when it is discriminated that the detected engine speed exceeds the predetermined speed.

Motivation to do so is to control engine speed through use of the throttle as opposed to disabling a piston or causing any other type of engine speed reduction which is more detrimental to the engine than engine speed reduction through throttle control.

The alerting means is either of 266 or 268 of Kanno.

With regard to claim 4, the engine will still run at idle speed.

The actuator of Gregory is considered to move the throttle valve in the closing direction by an amount repeatedly such that the engine speed drops gradually.

With regard to claim 11 see figure 8 and column 14, lines 22-end of Kanno.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Shomura is cited for what is disclosed in column 1, lines 18-30. Morikami is cited to show an engine in which intake air is controlled for a state different than a normal state.
